Restaurant Plan

In my composition plan I would like to analysis about the restaurant and orders correlations to find out the highest sales location, why that restaurant is popular and what restaurant generate the highest revenue?

My Theories are to do some basic research on the data I have on file to find out how rating has affected the orders counts? What city has got the highest sales quantity and last but not least how to look into data to get the highest revenue by working on sales amount and count of order from order and restaurant data. My visualization will be from horizontal bars. After this, I will put all into a dashboard to write the story and answer those questions.
